Due to the cost of digital storage space it is not economically feasible to retain the data indefinitely. You may purchase your edited DV master tape and keep it as an archive from which you can always make copies from. You can also now have your video transferred to DVD. A DVD has twice the resolution as a VHS tape and an infinite shelf life so your video will last forever. DVD also enables you to see any part of your video instantly, without having to fast-forward. The transfer typically costs over $500, but a new technology has made the DVD transfer very affordable, now we have it available for only $299. Additional DVD copies are only $149.
